Why not just use real wicker?

Real wicker starts out lovely, but will inevitably splinter and fade. Its recesses will also collect dust that is very difficult to remove. Primescape's South Pacific series has no gaps because the "weave" is simulated. Dust is repelled from the South Pacific's semi-gloss finish, and the color won't fade.

NOTE: A complex, dual-layer painting process is responsible for the South Pacific's natural look. As a result, the containers may vary slightly in hue and saturation (just like the visual properties of real wicker).

SUB-IRRIGATION

SELF-WATERING EQUIPMENT

pages 34-37

What is it?

Sub irrigation is the act of watering your plants from below the roots via a refillable reservoir.

Why use it?

Top-watering often causes water waste due to evaporation. It could also lead to over watering, which is harmful to the very plants you're trying to nurture.

Sub-irrigation lets your plants take what they need, when they need it. Every drop of water is used, every time.

How much will it cost?

Sub-irrigation is surprisingly inexpensive, especially when you consider the money you'll save in the long-run. Our systems require less-frequent watering and fewer service calls, which can often lead to fuel savings over time. They also promote longer plant life, DRAMATICALLY REDUCING THE NUMBER OF PLANT REPLACEMENTS!

Can you afford NOT to sub-irrigate?

The growing concern

It's no secret that Earth is facing a water shortage. More than 2 billion people worldwide have no access to clean water at all. Aside from the appeal of saving money, our industry faces a moral obligation to avoid wasting water whenever possible.

The most beautiful plant installations are made even more attractive by what is underneath the soil. Primescape's line of sub-irrigation products don't just promote the health of your plants - they protect the life of our planet.

Take a look at the next four pages, and give some thought to joining the sub-irrigation movement. You'll be glad you did.

Achieve a perfect balance of moisture and oxygen levels in your soil at all times with Planter Technology's container irrigation systems. Primescape offers the perfect unit for any planter. Give us a call today to learn more about what sub-irrigation can do for you!

HOW PLANTER TECHNOLOGY WORKS

The plant's root system absorbs water up through the bottom of the unit. When the sensor tip is wet, it closes off air flow to the inner chamber.

This prevents more water than necessary from entering the soil. As the soil dries, the sensor opens. This breaks the vacuum, pushing water into the soil once more.

CWM® Modular Irrigation System (custom-fit container links)

For odd-shaped or oversized plant beds, Primescape proudly offers many CWM® Modular options. Planter Technology has devised a unique system that combines all the benefits of their other units with the flexibility of modular engineering.

Call Primescape today for a consultation. For more sub-irrigation options, see our MONA systems on pages 36 and 37.
